Hollywood Dreams

Do you dream of being rich and famous? We talked to three young people at drama and music schools in Los Angeles.

Matt Richards, 14

I'm studying drama and cinema, and this is my second year at this school. I come to drama school three times a week after school. Last year we learnt a lot about acting. This year we're also learning how to write movie scripts and how to use a camera. That's great for me because I don't want to be an actor. I want to be a movie director and make great action movies like Terminator or King Kong.

Jenny Carver, 15

I'm studying music and drama. I'm lucky because my dad is a musician. He taught me to play the guitar and the piano. I come to the drama school two evenings a week after school. We learn how to sing and play musical instruments, but we're also learning how to write music. That's great, because when I leave school, I want to write music for movies.

Mick Tanner, 14

My drama school is different. I come here all day, every day! We have normal school lessons in the morning, and in the afternoon we have drama lessons. In my free time I watch a lot of comedies and thrillers and then I try to copy the actors. I'm really excited because last week I was in a new movie called Dark Nights in Denver. It was a very small part, I only said two words. But it was amazing!
